WaterTalks with MUSA was coordinated through COFEM's strong relations with Mujeres Unidas Sirviendo Activamente (MUSA). MUSA strives towards the goal of empowering, motivating and encouraging women to bring about productive, meaningful, and responsible civic, educational and cultural engagement. Anabella participates in the women's zumba classes and knew many of the women who attended the WaterTalk. The women were concerned about water build up and flooding as their community is at risk. Many of the women also expressed interest in better maintaining streets and reducing waste as they know it backs up the storm drains. The community is interested in receiving trees to plant in their neighborhood. They notice that different parts of Paramount are better maintained than their areas. The women would like to collaborate to advocate for more resources to maintain the streets, especially during the rainy seasons. Carlos was a great support during this talk, stepping in at parts of the presentation to provide more clarity and explanation. Thank you!
