Questions / Comments:

Community members discussed and showed interest in flood zones, stormwater capture, workforce development, residential and commercial solutions, and capital projects they would like to see implemented as well as an interest in learning and participating more in the Measure W Process. There was a great interest in the determination of safe and clean drinking water and the health effects that stem from the quality. There was an interest in learning more from the water agencies about program and opportunities for residents and commercial businesses. Also, walkable street and permeable surfaces, and school and new housing development mandates and projects was an interest. Storm water capture and grey waters projects were an interest especially from residents with home gardens. The group would like to have follow-ups after the survey and plan what is best for them as a community. Also interested in block-by-block group projects. They would like to learn more as they feel left out of the process. They informed that they will do a needs assessment of their blocks and determine what capital projects would be a good fit. A lot feel that their run-off water is contaminated due to heavy autobody and mechanic shops commercial/home industry.
